

June 4, 2010

Dear Parents and Students,

Upcoming Events:

Tuesday June 8th: Last day of school, dismissal at 11:45

Literacy: This week in Writer's Workshop the students finished their persuasive letters. We will be sharing our letters as a class, next Tuesday. In Reader's Workshop the students shared books with the class that they recommend. This list will be going home with the boys to give them ideas of books to read over the summer.

Religion: In Religion this week, the students took their last Religion Test. I allowed them to use their books and study guides for this test because I observed how well the class has been preparing for this test. This will be their final grade in Religion.

Social Studies: In Social Studies this week, the class finished their study of the Revolutionary War. We discussed the Treaty of Paris that concluded the fighting between the British and Patriots. We reviewed today for the Revolutionary War Test that will be given on Monday. I encourage the boys to study for this test over the weekend.

Science: This week in Science, the students took their Classifying Organisms Test. Overall, I was impressed with the scores on this test. The boys also went to Henry Ford. This was a wonderful field trip and the boys were full of great questions!

Other News: I am allowing the boys to take a math book home to keep if they would like, since we will be using different books next year. These books could be useful for extra practice over the summer.

Have a wonderful weekend.

Sincerely,

Sarah Melling
melling@stmarychargers.com